

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, November 27. 1705.

Rome, October 31,

Wednesday last being the Festival of St. Simon and Jude, the Pope went to the Cathedral of St. Peter accompanied by a great many Cardinals and other Prelats, and celebrated Mass himself at the Altar of those 2 Saints. Returning to the Palace he treated at Dinner the Cardinals that had accompany'd him; and after Dinner went to the Vatican Library, to see several Manuscripts which he lately bought and gave to that Library: Those Manuscripts are said to be very valuable, and were collected by Pope Pius II of the Family of Piccolomini. Father Tirso Gonzales, General of the Order of the Jesuits, dying y^e other Day in this City, a General Congregation of that Society is summon'd to meet the 15th of January next to chuse another; in the mean time Father Tamburini a Modenese officiates as General, being nominated thereto by the Deceased. The Differences between this Court and that of Vienna stand as they did; but those with the Court of Turin are heighten'd by the Pope's having given the Commanderie of St. Maurice and Lazarus to the Count de Buffi, notwithstanding the Duke of Savoy as Great Master of that Order had dispos'd of that Office to another Person. Prince Agostino Chigi, Nephew of Pope Alexander VII. dy'd here the 22d of this Month, after a long Sicknes in the 73d Year of his Age: By his Will he order'd his Corps should be bury'd without any Ceremony, notwithstanding which his Son Agostino desir'd leave of the Cardinal Vicar to make a pompous Funeral suitable to his Father's Rank and Birth; but his Eminency answering he could not dispense with the Will of the Deceased, the Prince caus'd the Sum of Money he design'd to bestow on that Funeral to be given among the Poor, and on the 23d the Corps was carry'd to the Church of Santa Maria del Popolo, to be interr'd in the Chappel of the Family of Chigi, which is one of the most magnificent ones in this City.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 24.

From the Imperial Army near Bischweiler, November 16. Count Nassau Weilbourg who had halted some Days near Landau, continu'd his March last Week with his Detachment towards Homburg, to besiege it; but receiv'd a new Counter-Order by the Way, that Siege being put off to another time, because of the frosty Weather and for other Reasons: The Palatine Troops of which that Detachment was partly compos'd, are gone into Winter-Quarters in their own Country and thereabouts; and the Troops of Franconia and all the Imperial Grenadiers which were of that Detachment likewise, have rejoyn'd our Army. Most of our Horse are canton'd in the Villages in the Neighbourhood of this Camp, but the rest will continue here some Days with the Foot to cover the Workmen employ'd upon the new Fortifications of Haguenau, Drusenheim and Bischweiler: The number of which Workmen is doubled, to perfect those new Works the sooner. The Marshal de Villars continues incamp'd near Strasbourg with part of the Foot of his Army, having canton'd his Horse in the Villages thereabouts, and sent several thousand Foot and Horse towards Zabern.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 19.

From the Army of the Allies at Peer Nov. 15. The 13th we decamp'd from Leomel, and march'd hither. The 14th some English Regiments that remain'd with us, march'd for Maestricht to Winter there. To morrow our Army will all separate and march into Winter-Quarters; the Rigour of the Season not permitting us to keep the Field any longer. Lieutenant General Salisch who is appointed to command this Winter on the Maese, will lead the Troops that are to quarter in Liege, Huy, and Hasselt: And the Hessian Troops that are to pass the Maese at Visser, will march with him. Lieutenant General Dopff will lead the Troops that are to be garrison'd in Maestricht, Stockum, &c. Lieutenant General Dompere, will file towards Verkenwerd with those for Bergen-op-zoom, Breda, Geertruydenberg, Bol-duc, &c. And the Prince of Wirtemberg will march towards Nimueguen with the Danish Troops, he commands, which are to Winter in the lower Guelderland and Overysse. The 11th Instant the Enemy abandon'd Dieft after having blown up the Gates; and Colonel Jacob Pasteur having join'd near Burgen, with a Detachment of Horse, the Enemy's Troops that had abandon'd Dieft, they fil'd towards Tirlemont, where being join'd by some more of the Enemy's Troops, they all pass'd the Dyle near Waveren, and march'd in several Columns to take Quarrers in Namur, Charleroy, Philipville, Givet and other Places. The Enemy have likewise caus'd a good number of Troops to file towards Brussels, Tournay and Maubenge. Yesterday only a small Part of their Army remain'd in a Body near Lier to observe us.

From the Leiden Gazette, &c. dated November 24.

Cologne, Nov. 20. The Troops of Hanover and Zell which serv'd this Campaign in the Enemy's Army in Brabant, pass'd the Maese some Days ago at Ruremond and continue their march towards the Rhine, which River they are to pass the 25th or 26th Instant between this Place and Bon, to take Winter-Quarters in the Westerwald. The Troops of Lunenburg and Hesse Cassel are marching towards the Moselle, and are to pass that River at Coblenz, to take Winter-Quarters in the Hontfrugg.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated November 24.

Maestricht, Nov. 28. The 16th our Army separated. The same Day the Field-Marshal Monsieur d'Auverquerque came hither, and was welcom'd with a Discharge of the Cannon on our Ramparts. A great Convoy of Ammunition and Provisions is put into Sout-leewe. The Prince d'Auvergne is to command the Garrison of 8 Battallions and 4 Squadrons in Hasselt: Workmen are employ'd to strengthen the Fortifications of that Place with Palisadoes. The Enemy's Army is wholly separated and gone into Winter-Quarters.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated November 27.

Maestricht, November 23. All our Troops are gone into Winter-Quarters, except some Foot which are to cover the Workmen employ'd in the Fortifications of Tongres and Hasselt, till those Places are put into a sufficient State of Defence. We have Advice from Brussels that the Marshal de Villory arriv'd there the 17th Instant, after having sent the Troops into Winter-Quarters and provided for the Security of the Frontier-Places, and that the Elector of Bavaria arriv'd there the 19th.

Maestricht, November 24. The Field-Marshal M. d'Anverquerque set out from hence this Morning for the Hague, where 'tis advis'd General Slangenberg arriv'd the 18th Instant. Men continue to work upon the Fortifications of Hasselt and Tongres, to put them out of Danger for this Winter: But there will be no Troops put into St. Tron, Borkloen, Berlingen, and other small Places that lie more expos'd to the Enemy, as had been design'd before Diest was taken.

Spithead, November 23. This Day arriv'd the Canterbury and Charles Galley from Gibraltar, with an Express from Sir Cloudisly Shovel for the Queen, and report that before they were out of sight of Gibraltar they saw Sir Cloudisly Shovel making Preparation to come home with several Men of War, which they believe will be at Spithead in 4 or 5 Days.
